This bibliography of legal writing on the Common Heritage of Mankind (CHM) is dedicated to the memory of Father Peter Serracino Inglott (1936-2012) for whom the Common Heritage was a basic tenet of his own Christian faith, but one which applied to all men and women irrespective of their creeds and convictions.

Prue Taylor and Lucy Stroud take 1967 as their starting point when Arvid Pardo, a diplomat, scholar and the first permanent representative of Malta and the UN in 1964, launched the concept of the CHM onto the international stage. Contrary to the opinion of those who dismiss CHM as 'dead and buried on the deep sea- bed' or merely a political slogan or utopian ideal, CHM is indeed alive and flourishing.

Consistent with the foresight of Arvid Pardo who considered CHM flexible enough to adapt to the emerging challenges, the discovery of new resources and values, such as scientific research. The bibliography underpins the range of topics to which it is being applied and links it with an important debate in international law which is of "human responsibility" for the collective goods.

Published by Fondation de Malte, in collaboration with EurOcean, the bibliography is divided into ten thematic sessions and is an ideal research and reference tool on CHM.

To order or for any enquires contact Fondation de Malte at:
Casa Cintraj, 54, West Street, Valletta VLT 1536,
E-mail: info@fondationdemalte.org
Fax: +356 2123 7249
The Authors

Prue Taylor LLB, LLM (Hons), LLM (Envt’l & Energy): received her legal qualifications from Victoria University, New Zealand and Tulane University, USA. She currently teaches environmental and planning law to graduate and undergraduate students at the School of Architecture and Planning, University of Auckland. She is the Deputy Director of the New Zealand Centre for Environmental Law and a long standing member of the IUCN Commission of Environmental Law and its Ethics Specialist Group. Prue’s specialist interests are in the areas of climate change, human rights, biotechnology, environmental governance, ocean law and policy, property rights and environmental ethics. She has written numerous books and articles in these areas. Her book, An Ecological Approach to International Law: Responding to the Challenges of Climate Change (Routledge), won a NZ Legal Research Foundation Prize. In 2007 Prue received an outstanding achievement award from the IUCN in recognition of her contribution, as a world pioneer on law, ethics and climate change. Her most recent publication, together with David Grinlinton, is Property Rights and Sustainability (Martinus Nijhoff, 2011).

Lucy Stroud LLB (Honours): received her legal qualifications from the University of Auckland in New Zealand and is a PhD Candidate in Law from the same institution. She is a Senior Researcher at the New Zealand Centre for Environmental Law (NZCEL) and a member of the IUCN World Commission on Environmental Law as well as the Ethics Specialist Group. Her research areas of interest are public international law, international environmental law, oceans governance, Antarctic law and policy, indigenous interests and ethics. As an international law consultant and researcher, she has embarked on projects with myriad groups from United Nations partners, indigenous tribes and nongovernmental organizations to the private sector. One of her current projects comprises research work on a capacity building programme in collaboration with the Secretariat of the Pacific Regional Environment Programme, NZCEL and the United Nations Environment Programme. A component of this long-term project included her co-authorship of the text Multilateral Environmental Agreement Negotiator’s Handbook: Pacific Region 2013 (Samoa: SPREP/New Zealand: New Zealand Centre for Environmental Law, 2013).